

Northwestern Business College

For more than 100 years, Northwestern Business College has been helping students succeed in the most in-demand fields, with certificate and associate in applied science degree programs that you can complete in as little as one to two years. Our focus on personal attention, small class sizes, and targeted curriculum concentrated on career-related skills create an excellent learning environment. Our lifetime job placement helps students before and after they graduate. NC's three campuses—including our newest south campus in Bridgeview—make it convenient for students to attend college by offering classes days, evenings, and weekends, and on a full- or part-time basis.
